

ABSTRACT

Processed cereal food quality enhancers comprising white potato-derived water-soluble acidic polysaccharides. Outward migration of starches of the processed cereal foods is prevented, loss of luster is improved, clumping within the food is eliminated for improved loosening properties, and clouding of the boiling water used for reconstitution is avoided, thus enhancing the quality of the processed cereal foods.